Uber for Business

Getting started:

On (day of launch), you will receive an email from Uber inviting you to join the NCL corporate account. Please follow the steps below to get started:

Step 1. Sign In: Sign in with your existing Uber credentials (i.e. your personal email address or cell phone number if you already have an Uber account). If you are new to Uber, create a new personal account here.

A screenshot of the Uber 'Sign Up with Uber' form. The form is titled 'Sign Up with Uber' and features the Uber logo at the top. It contains several input fields: 'First name (required)', 'Last name (required)', 'Enter your phone number (required)' (with a country code dropdown set to '+1'), 'Enter your email (required)', and 'Enter a password (required)'. Each field has a placeholder text and a small icon to its right. The form is set against a light blue background with a patterned header.

Hot tip: If you already have an Uber account, it's best to tap the invitation link from your mobile device because this will automatically open your Uber app to join your business account.

Step 2. Your Business Profile: Check your Uber and Uber Eats apps on your phone to find your new business profile (we've also attached guides below). If you don't have the apps, you can download them for:

- iOS: Uber / Uber Eats
- Android: Uber / Uber Eats

Step 3. Ride and Eat: Make sure to select the NCL profile when ordering meals for business.

Need Assistance?

Please refer to this onboarding guide if you are just getting started and have any questions. Additionally, you can visit the Uber Help center or reach out to Uber's business support team at business-support@uber.com for any questions related to your business account.
